

The Kansas City Monarchs are fast rounding into form, and with John Donaldson, Mendez, McNear and a huge collection of diamond stars on the training scene, Wilkerson insists that he is going to have the best team in the new organization. All the clubs hit toward K. C. right off the reel, so the far western mag is not going to be caught napping; he has a wealth of material to select from, and from the names gleaned from the roster of the club, the Monarchs will make a runaway race of the affair unless suddenly stopped by some of the travelers.

Chicago Defender, Chicago, IL

Saturday, April 17, 1920, Page 9, Column 3