

MARCOS AGAINST A. B. C'S.

A big clash in the Taylor family will occur at Indianapolis Sunday when Jim Taylor, fresh from a big win over the American Giants, takes his team to Hoosierville, where he confidently expects to down his famous brother, C. L., in the first games of the circuit between the Marcos of Dayton and a clan. The Marcos under Jim Taylor, although carrying many faces new to the fans, undoubtedly are one of the classiest aggregations on the circuit and a big surprise is in store for all teams whom they tackle. George Britt is one of the most versatile players in the game, a player who can go out and pitch a star game today and then catch with equal form the next day.

There does not appear to be a weak worker on the entire pitching staff. Wilson, the lad who worked against the American Giants Sunday, displayed form that rates him with the best, while Lane, the other heaver who does efficient outfield duty as well as pitch, is one of the most valued players in the game. The Marco infield is experienced and compares favorably with any on the circuit. The Ohio boy can clout the ball with the best: having as they do six slashing left-hand batters, they are certain to make life miserable for the many right-hand pitchers who encounter difficulty with batters who slash from the south side of the plate. The Marcos are destined to prove the sensation of the new circuit, and the clash on Sunday with Jim Taylor opposed by Brother C. I. and Ben, is bound to furnish fan fodder that will put the bugs to buzzing at Hoosierville and may incidentally upset the great hopes that the A.'s cherish, that is, of beating all comers on the home grounds.

Chicago Defender, Chicago, IL

Saturday, May 22, 1920, Page 9, Column 2