

Royal Giants and Bears Meet This Afternoon

What promises to be the best set of games staged at Dyckman Oval, near the Dyckman street subway station, this season is booked for this afternoon when the Royal Giants, winners of the American colored championship two years ago, meet Jeff Tesreau's Bears in a double header.

The Royals, unlike previous years, are playing on the road all this season, and to date out of eighty-seven games they have lost only eleven. The team boasts of several of the highest class colored players in the country, including the famous Lloyd, of whom John McGraw once said, "If he were a Cuban I'd have him with the Giants."
