

"BLACK CRACKERS" TO PLAY "GIANTS"

Colored Team of Professionals From Atlanta to Play Games Here.

VISITORS HAVE STRONG CLUB

The "Black Crackers," an Atlanta colored baseball team, will be in Macon tomorrow and Tuesday to play the "Macon Giants," a local colored team.

The "Black Crackers" are entered in a league composed of Montgomery, Knoxville and other cities and, according to the standings of teams in that organization published recently, are in second place, giving the leader a close race for the pennant.

The local club, through Manager J. E. Denton, arranged with the president of the league to have the Atlanta team play the two games here. The contests were made possible by the absence of any scheduled games for the Atlanta outfit on these two days. The visitors have played in every part of this State, and Alabama, Louisiana, Tennessee and two or three other States. They have made a good record in all games played to date. They are said to have one of the greatest colored baseball nines ever gotten together in these parts.

A portion of the grandstand at Central City has been reserved for the white fans who wish to attend and arrangements have been made for street cars to run to the park. The games will be called at 3:30 o'clock.

Prior to the game tomorrow, a street parade will be given, in which a brass band and the players of the rival teams will take part, the players wearing their uniforms for the sake of identification between Macon and Atlanta performers.
