

Washington Park, Ind., Sunday, May 2.—Before more than ten thousand wildly enthusiastic baseball fans, C. I. Taylor's world famous A. B. C.'s made their initial bow of the season here today to the home town folks after two years of pastiming on foreign fields. The Indianapolis fans were hungry for baseball; hungry for the kind and class of ball, characteristic of the well known efforts of their wizard manager. And the manager of the rousing reception tendered the re-entry of Taylor and his stalwarts spoke volumes for the success of colored baseball.

Joe Green and his sturdy Chicago Giants were on hand to help the Taylorites pry off the lid in both games and lost them both.

Kansas City Sun, Kansas City, MO

Saturday, May 15, 1920, Page 8, Column 3