

AMERICAN GIANTS

PLAY HERE TODAY

"The big league team of the colored baseball world will arrive in Charleston today for a series of two games with the Charleston Piedmonts. The visiting aggregation is the American Giants, known throughout the United States as the greatest negro baseball players in the world." It is announced.

"The first game of the series will be played at Hampton Park this afternoon at 4 o'clock and the second game at the same hour tomorrow. Thomas Williams, who is scheduled to pitch one of the games here, is a Charleston negro. He learned the art of curving 'em at Hampton Park while watching the Sea Gull twirlers at work. He joined the Giants at Chicago last year and has proved its star pitcher.

"The American Giants' headquarters are Chicago, but during the past sixty days the team has been training at Palm Beach. It came south for purpose of invading Cuba, but passports were refused the manager, "Hube" Foster.

"Manager James Young, of the Charleston team, reports his team in the pink of condition for the two games."

Charleston News and Courier, Charleston, SC

Monday Morning, March 25, 1918, Page 6, Column 3