The All Watertown management says that they have filled the weak spots on their team with new material and have assured local fandom that the colored tossers will be routed in the two week end games.

However, the local management announced today that they will assure the local fans a pitcher, who twirled and finished in the New York State League last season. This pitcher was obtained today, but his name has not been divulged. This announcement is no bluff on the part of the local management and the fans can rest assured that he will be in the box Sunday.

Teddy Smades, now a member of United States army is in this city on a furlough and will twirl Saturday's game against the colored tossers. Everyone here knows Smades

Aside from these valuable pitching additions, Watertown now has "Jack" Joy, a tower of strength, playing third base. He is the goods and those who saw him play around the hot corner in a game against the Q. M. C. Detachment of Madison Barracks at the fair grounds Thursday, were astonished at his great work.

Everyone knows Thomas' ability at short and his hitting powers and with two other new men in the lineup the All-Watertown team invites all local fandom to the ball park Saturday and Sunday to see them clean up for Pop Watkins' colored men.
