

Rogan Will Hurl For Los Angeles Team This Year

Wilbur Rogan, premier pitcher of the 25th Inf., has signed to play with the Los Angeles White Sox, considered one of the leading colored teams in the country. John Anderson's team is given the following notice in a Los Angeles newspaper:

Columns have been devoted to various characteristics and qualifications of baseball magnates, devotees of the great American game, but here is a story of a magnate unique in the annals of this famous pastime.

John Anderson, known as the "Black Prince," rated as a millionaire and retired from the business world, is devoting his energy and capital to promote his favorite hobby. He is the owner of the L. A. White Sox, a colored aggregation of ball players.

"It is my ambition to be the owner of a ball club that will prove to be the greatest colored aggregation in the world. At present I have three great stars in pitchers, Mooney, Donaldson and my latest acquisition, Rogan, whom I have secured from Honolulu. I am negotiating for other stars to strengthen the Sox lineup and I will not be satisfied until I have a club without a flaw. The white teams have their champions and I will spare no expense to make my club the greatest colored aggregation in the land," said "Black Prince" Anderson.

Donaldson is considered to be the greatest southpaw in the business, although to date he has failed to pitch a sensational game for the Sox. However, he has proven effective and may be expected at any time to show his real class.

Mooney is Anderson's old standby. He possesses a "shoe string" ball which has proven the undoing of many opposing clubs. His headwork while in the box proves his worth as a finished pitcher.

Rogan, the latest addition to the Sox, is one of the greatest colored players in the business, performing at any position on the diamond or outfield with his pitching and heavy batting as his principal assets. Rogan has a record of pitching 54 consecutive innings without allowing a run, a record within two innings of equaling Walter Johnson's great record of 56 consecutive innings without a score.

The White Sox meet the Westerns this afternoon at Maier Park, Vernon, in the first game of the new league schedule. Rogan will pitch for the Sox.
