
NEW YORK BLACK SOX TO INVADE THE EAST

W. T. Smith, known in base ball circles as "Big Bill" is getting the New York Black Sox in shape to make a tour of the west. Manager Smith is a thorough and practical baseball man, having managed the Brooklyn Royal Glants and Mohawk Giants successfully. Knowing the strength of the teams located in Chicago, St. Louis, Indianapolis and Louisville, he realizes the importance of having a first-class aggregation. Washington, D. C., has several first-class men, who will be seen in the line-up of the Black Sox this season. Manager Smith can be addressed at 916 French street, Washington, D. C.

Indianapolis Freeman, Indianapolis, Indiana

Saturday, May 8, 1915, Page 4, Column 4