

A large crowd is looked for at Rourke park this afternoon when the Brandeis warriors will pounce on the dusky rats from Tennessee and endeavor to hold them in submission, so they will not travel around the paths as if there were a cat on their trail. The Tennessee Rats have already amply demonstrated the fact to the fans that have seen them perambulate on the turf that they are a tough combination to feed on lemons. Both teams are in the pink of condition for this fracas, so in all probability a contest worth the nicks with interest and compound interest at that will be staged.
