

Tennessee Rats Next Opponents to Face Armours at Rourke's

Business Manager Deleware announces that the Armours have signed the Tennessee Rats to play them at Rourke Park on May 31 and June 1. The Armours will play the balance of the season at Rourke Park, despite the rumor that they would be unable to carry out their contract for the grounds because of the loss of some of their star players.

Field Manager Harry Williams has resigned but Oscar Williams will take up the reins and a determined effort to get Andy Graves to play with Armours will be made. Art Dyck will not quit the Armours and if Andy can be landed, he and Dyck will make the packers a strong mound combination. It is likely that "Chugs" Ryan will do the receiving since Harry Williams left them. Two or three new players will be on hand within the next few days, Deleware declares.
