

STORZ AND CHICAGO GIANTS TODAY AND TOMORROW

Great Sport Promised Omaha Fans at Rourke Park for Two Days.

Frank C. Leland's crack colored team, the Chicago Giants, will hook up with Fred Bradford's local semi-pros, the Storz, today and Sunday, at Rourke park.

Showing their appreciation of Manager Bradford's efforts to give them the greatest attractions available, the fans are turning out en masse, and the coming games give promise of being a repetition of the All Nations series.

Manager Leland has retained last season's stars—Crawford, the "Iron Man," who pitched both games against the Brewers last season; "Bobby" Winston and "Happy" Green, the hard hitting outfielders, and "King" Strothers, the peer of colored backstops. With these remarkable players under contract, Manager Leland slipped over to St. Louis and completed his aggregation of all stars at the expense of the famous St. Louis Giants.

Manager Bradford is to be congratulated on securing the services of "Pep" Sanders, whose initial performance was a revelation to the fans, and for the benefit of those who were unable to see this great slabman perform last Sunday "Brad" has decided to work "Husk" Olson today and save the big Missourian for Sunday. The lineup:
