

Brooklyn Royals at Southwark Today

Southwark Field Club tackles the hardest proposition of the season to-day at Tenth and Oregon Avenue when they line up against the Brooklyn Royal Giants. It takes some ball club to humble the Royals, but pilot Bill Rudolph is confident that he can turn the trick. The Giants were due to play Southwark two weeks ago, but the game was postponed owing to rain. This has added to the interest for today's game and a record crowd is expected. Bassett and O'Donnell will be in the points for Southwark.

Southwark Field Club

Tenth St. and Oregon Ave.

Southwark vs.

Brooklyn Royal Giants

TODAY, 8.15 P. M.

Philadelphia Inquirer, Philadelphia, PA

Saturday Morning, July 11, 1914, Page 8, Columns 6 & 8