

SEATTLE SWAMPED BY SPEEDY NEGRO TEAM; PLAY AGAIN TODAY

Despite the drizzle and the wet grounds, the game between the Seattle Giants and the colored American Giants of Chicago took place at Dug's park Friday afternoon as scheduled. The biggest crowd to witness a practice game this season, numbering close to 500, saw the battle. Score: Seattle 5, Chicago 10.

• • •

Schnelder twirled fairly good ball, but received poor support from his teammates. The negroes should not have scored in the opening inning. Three of their players, who should have been thrown out, came across the rubber. Schnelder disposed of 11 men on strikes, against nine strike-outs by his opponent, Dougherty.

• • •

Petway's catching was easily the feature of the game. He instilled fear into the hearts of the Seattle runners by his pegging, holding the locals close to the bags at all times. Petway ended the game with a double play when Raymond hit to Dougherty, who threw to the pan, cutting off Fullerton coming home. Then Petway shot the ball to first, nabbing Raymond by a yard.

• • •

Pete Schneider brought in the first runs for the Giants on his hard drive over the left field fence in the seventh. Raymond was on at the time. Dougherty made the mistake of grooving one.

• • •

The negroes hit like fiends. Six of the visitors got doubles.

• • •

If the grounds are in good shape hostilities will be resumed this afternoon. Lindsay will probably pitch for the visitors and Dell for Seattle. Wally will likely catch.

Seattle Star, Seattle, WA

Saturday, April 5, 1913, Page 2, Columns 2 & 3