
CUBAN STARS AND THE AMERICAN GIANTS PLAY

During the next few days Detroit fans, in the absence of the Tigers, will have a chance to see semi-pro baseball at Mack Park of a calibre that comes very close to the big league stuff, two of the leading clubs outside of organized baseball playing in a series of games that should be bitterly fought ones.

The world-famed Cuban Stars, who appeared at the east side enclosure earlier in the season, are booked to play the American Giants, Rube Foster's celebrated Chicago aggregation, in a series of three games to be played Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and then on Sunday the Cubans remain here for their last game of the season, meeting the S. & S.
