A serious injury resulted in the game between the Ironsides, of this city, and the Lincoln Giants, at New York yesterday afternoon. In the seventh inning Jack Pfaler and B. Arnold, two local players, in running after a fly, collided. Arnold was knocked unconscious and carried from the field, and then rushed to a nearby hospital, where temporary treatment was afforded. Pfaler had two front teeth knocked out, while Arnold's cheek was lacerated by Pfaler's teeth and brain concussion was feared. He is almost recovered now. The contest ended in a victory for the home team by 8 to 0.

Cyclone Joe Williams, the big Chicago heaver, made his first appearance with the Giants, and besides shutting out the Ironers, held them hitless and fanned sixteen batters.

The locals hit but one ball out of the infield, Santop, the right fielder of the Cubans, throwing the player out at first.
