

In the Field of Sport.

BY HAROLD C. MCGATH.

Chas. A. Mills is secretary and business manager of the St. Louis Giants baseball team.

• • •

Felix Wallace, formerly of the St. Paul Gophers and the Chicago Giants, will captain the St. Louis Giants for the season of 1910.

• • •

Young Erne, who defeated Sammy Smith at the National Athletic Club, Philadelphia, last week, is out in a challenge to Ad Wolgast for the lightweight championship. Erne is willing to meet Wolgast at 133 pounds, ringside.

• • •

A team of Japanese ball tossers will tour this country next season. It will give a series of exhibition games. This is a plan with which the National Commission cannot interfere, for the Japs are free agents and not subservient to the baseball law of the land.

• • •

J. S. M. Lange, writing from Jacksonville, Fla., says that he is recuperating, also looking up his winter force. About the 5th of December he will start for New York, stopping at Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Atlantic City. He says he is likely to take stock in the Leland Giants, which he considers the best team in the country.

• • •

FELIX WALLACE, OF THE ST. LOUIS GIANTS.

The St. Louis Giants management counts itself extremely lucky in signing up Felix Wallace for the season of 1911. The new man has an excellent record as an infielder—in fact, an all-round player who can play with success at most any station. Wallace played with the St. Paul Gophers in 1909, and was captain of that well-known team. The season of 1910 he played third base for the Chicago Giants. Both of these teams are top-notchers. His important positions in them show well for Mr. Wallace. He will be leader of the St. Louis Giants, consequently great things are expected of him for 1911.

The Freeman, Indianapolis, IN

Saturday, November 19, 1910, Page 7, Column 1 to 4