
Carl Mays, the famous big league pitcher, was defeated last Sunday by Dick Redding, also a famous pitcher, who like many other stars is handicapped by the color line.

Dick Redding of the Bacharach Giants proved his right beyond a reasonable doubt to be classified among the really great pitchers of the year when he out-pitched Carl Mays, one of the acknowledged stars of the big league in a fourteen inning game Sept. 28 at Dyckeman Oval, New York City. Mays weakened in the 14th, allowing the Giants to score four runs, and win the game by the score of 5 to 1.

GIANTS, 3; BOONE, 0.

Boone, Ia., Oct. 4.—The Union Giants defeated the Coopers, 3 to 0. This makes seventy-one games won twenty-six lost, and three tied for the Giants this season. Score:

Giants..0 0 0 0 3 0 0 0 0—3 5 2

Cooper..0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 2 2

Batteries—Marshall and Coleman;
Burchfield and Swanson.

The Chicago Whip, Chicago, IL

Saturday, October 11, 1919, Page 4, Columns 1, 2 and 7