
We have heard big fish and baseball stories but this one outshines them all. One of the dusky sons of Africa, who plays with the Winnipeg giants, was bragging about their pitcher and said that he killed one man last year and seriously injured another. "That's nothing," replied one of the local fans. "We had a man get up to bat in one of the games recently and he knocked the ball two feet into the ground." Exit, Rastus.

The Winnipeg Giants, a colored team, will cross bats with the local team Monday afternoon. The game will be called at five o'clock, in order not to conflict with the exercises to be held that afternoon. The local team has several new players coming, and a fast game is expected. Several of the Giants are fast enough for league teams, but are kept out on account of their color.
