

Charleston's Catch Features Chi.-Giants A. B. C. Game

Indianapolis, Ind., Sunday.—After taking the first game at Washington Park, 7 to 4, Taylor's A. B. C.'s could not hit the ball hard enough to win the second, losing, 6 to 4, in seven innings, the Sunday closing law putting a halt to things. The Chicago Giants furnished opposition, and the visitors looked to be a far better club than the first time they were here.

Charleston's running catch of a hard hit drive, directly over his head, was the big feature of the afternoon. It was truly one of the best catches ever made by an outfielder at Washington Park. This speedy center fielder has made quite a few great catches this season, but this was the best he has ever pulled.

McClure pitched the first game for the A's and was never in real danger. His fast ball seemed to puzzle the Chicago club. J. Taylor pitched for the Giants and with better support would have held the local club to a better score.

In the second scrap the Giants hit Johnson in the pinches, and aided by two errors counted enough runs to win.

A.	B.	C.'s.....	1	0	2	1	1	2	0	0	0-7
Giants	.....	.....	0	0	2	0	0	1	0	0	1-4

Chicago Defender, Chicago, IL

Saturday, July 31, 1920, Page 6, Column 5