

Indianapolis, Ind.—At the meeting of the National Association of Colored Baseball clubs here, last week, a harmonious spirit prevailed throughout the sessions and much good was accomplished for the success of the new circuit. President Rube Foster was a capital presiding officer and with his usual diplomacy smoothed over the opposition among some of the owners to the percentage that has been paid him for handling their affairs and scheduling games. The Dayton team, owned by Jno. Matthews, a financial failure, was transferred to Columbus, a much better ball town, and the veteran Sol White appointed manager. Hilldale, owned by Bolden, was admitted to the league and he and the Bacharach's owners settled their differences. The Cleveland delegation, headed by President Geo. J. Tate of the Tate Stars and Lem R. Williams, received a warm welcome and their program given favorable consideration.

The Gazette, Cleveland, OH

Saturday, December 11, 1920, Page 3, Column 4