

Association Park held 3,000 baseball enthusiasts last Sunday who journeyed out to witness the double header, but particularly to see Jack Johnson's Topeka Giants make their initial bow in this city, and the Sun has no hesitancy in saying that they were well repaid for their trip.

The first game was between the Elliotts and the Chelsea Parks, two white teams, and it was a scrap and a wrangle from the first to the tenth inning. And it was 5 o'clock before the Giants made their appearance upon the diamond, but when they did appear they set the grandstand afire with enthusiasm by a most amusing but skillful display of shadow baseball. Darkness stopped the game at the end of the sixth inning with a score of 6-3 in favor of the Giants. They easily demonstrated that the Elliotts, their opponents, were not in their class. No doubt, when they meet the All Nations it will bring together the greatest crowd that has been seen at the park since Rube Foster's American Giants.

Kansas City Sun, Kansas City, MO

Saturday, September 15, 1917, Page 4, Column 1