

"Polly" McLarry is sore in limb and mind. He has a sore arm that troubles him so much that he dislikes to throw. Then someone circulated the report that the Los Angeles White Sox pitcher struck him out four times at Pasadena Sunday. He denies such was the case, but some of his teammates state it was so.

Evening Herald, Los Angeles, CA

Saturday, March 17, 1917, Page 12, Column 6