

The Kansas City Royal Giants, who are booked to play the Storz Triumphs

Saturday and Sunday, July 27 and 28, at Rourke park, boast of having the greatest pitching staff of any team outside of organized base ball.

In Washington, Boone, McNear and Johnson, Manager Jack Johnson (not "Lil Artha"), has a quartet of slabmen who rank with any in the minor leagues, but who, on account of their color, are barred from entering the professional ranks.

Ashes, the clever little shortstop, has the reputation of being the star performer, some of his stops bordering on the marvellous. In addition to being a great ball player, Ashes delights in keeping up a run of talk that makes a hit with the fans, and never fails to take advantage of the opportunities offered while on the coaching lines to bring out some of his funny remarks. The Storz will find this gang a starchy proposition.

Today's mix between the Storz Triumphs and Townsends will be for the gate receipts. Some team won't even get car fare.

Herewith a team composed of fellows that used to play with the Storz Triumphs: Coe, catcher; Bruggeman, pitcher; Frank Quigley, first; Hall, second; McLean, short; Eastman, third; Fox, Kucera and Fenlon, outfielders. This bunch of ex-Storz Triumphs would, if given an opportunity, give the present Storz bunch a good run for the money. They are all close by and would gladly play the Storz.

Omaha Sunday Daily Bee, Omaha, NE

Sunday, July 21, 1912, Sports Page 3, Columns 2 and 3